PEACE PLAN FOR KOREA IS UNDER DEBATE

Britain Paces Strong Movement in Assembly to Frame Program in Case of Armistice

INDONESIA ADMITTED

New York, Sept. 27—(P)—Paced by Britain, a strong movement was underway in the United Nations Assembly today to frame a peace and relief plan for Korea, to be ready to go into operation when mounting U. N. military successes are complete.

A general British plan is being circulated among many delegations for suggestions. A number of countries probably will act with Britain to sponsor a completed resolution, based on the idea that all Korea should be free and independent, with a government elected under U. N. supervision.

Such a plan, approved by the United States and following British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin's assembly plan for the U. N. to be ready to help all Korea, would probably get emergency treatment and be rushed through committees and the assembly.

Although the general plan calls for the U. N. to continue its collective military assistance to the Republic of South Korea, none of the plan's sponsors would comment on whether U. N. forces now should go north of the 38th parallel, across which North Korea launched its forces.

Talk of the plan occupied most delegates last night, after the assembly debated much of the day and battered down Russian and satellite opposition to placement of (Turn to Page Eight)

Various Units for Civilian Defense in County Report on Plans for Meeting Emergency

Over forty members of the Warren County Defense Council met yesterday afternoon in the county courthouse to hear reports on the progress of the civilian defense system in Warren county.

Floyd Clinger, deputy coordinator, presided at the session and warned the council that the Korean successes and the recent peace moves by Russia, have a tendency to hinder the work of civilian defense, as the public is lulled into belief that the danger is over. He stated however, that the defense setup must be established now for use at any time in the future when an emergency may arise.

The chairman of the various defense divisions were called on for reports. The educational division is already functioning and a speakers bureau has begun its work by addressing local groups in the county.

Ben Kinnear, chief air raid warden reported that eleven air raid posts are setup and fully manned. It is expected that sometime this week, perhaps on Saturday, an air raid test will be carried out over the county and the new posts will be checked for the first time. The public will not take part in this first air raid warning.

Doug Kropf, in charge of plant protection, told the council that each plant will have an independent defense unit and they are now being formed.

David Crosssett has been named chief warden, and will be in charge of all warden service in the county. Each township will have several wardens. In the borough each ward will have wardens and Bill Hill is chief in the borough.

Henry Walker, member of the communications division, stated that the panel has been set up and is ready to go to work. Homer Haines chief engineer of WNAE told the group that WNAE has an auxiliary power supply and should the power be cut, local citizens (Turn to Page Eight)

GIFFORD WILL BE SUCCESSOR TO DOUGLAS

Washington, Sept. 27—(P)—The White House announced today President Truman's selection of Walter S. Gifford as ambassador to London.

Gifford, former chairman of the board of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and a Republican, will succeed Lewis W. Douglas in the post.

The formal announcement was made immediately after receipt of British approval of the appointment, a step required by diplomatic custom.

Douglas resigned yesterday for "personal considerations, including those of health."

The change will be made effective November 1 after Douglas returns to London to conclude his work there.

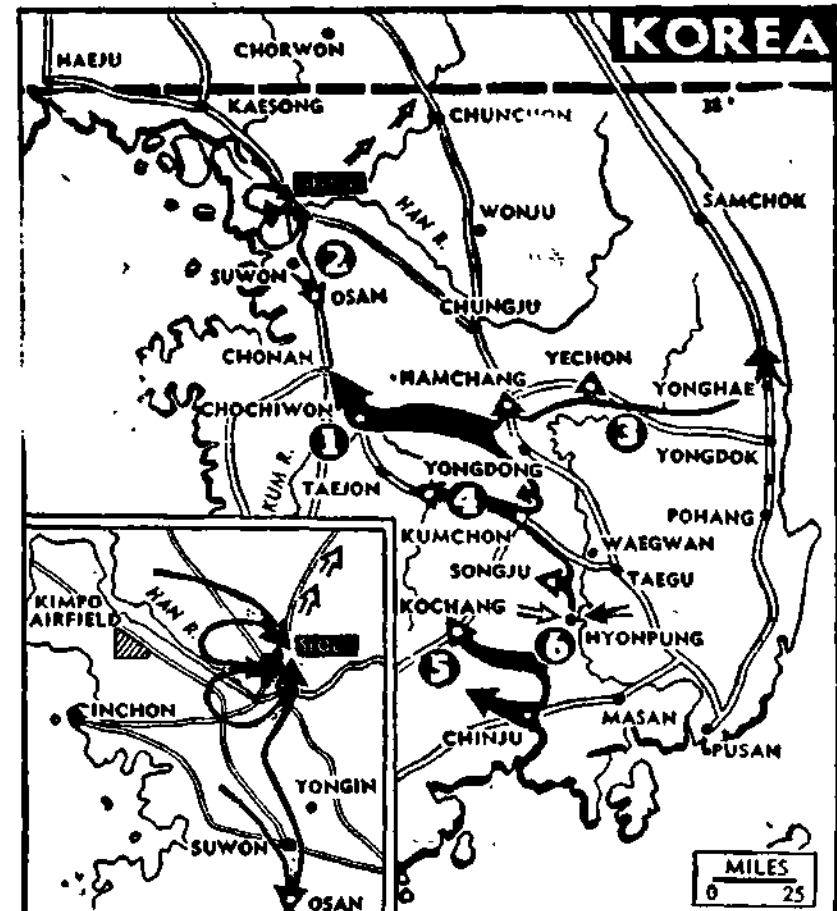

Douglas plans to stay in London a month, then go to his home in Arizona to rest.

Gifford, who did government and war production work in both World Wars, is 65, almost 10 years older than Douglas. An active Republican, he may add strength to bi-partisan cooperation on foreign policy.

The post is of first rate importance both because of the vital nature of American-British relations and because the London embassy serves as a kind of central point for coordinating much diplomatic work in the European area.

Douglas resigned in the course of a conference with the president. The White House announced the action by making public an exchange of letters between Douglas and Mr. Truman.

The 56-year-old diplomat who has held the London post since March 1947, said he was giving it up because of "personal considerations, including those of health." He will leave office about Nov. 1.

SYMPTOMS OF RED ROUT—Seoul was officially liberated as UN forces fought weakening Red rear guards inside the city (inset map), and pressed northeast in pursuit of bulk of Red troops (open arrows) fleeing toward 38th parallel. U. S. 1st Cavalry Division (ve past Chochiwon (1), possibly to Chonan narrowing the gap to between 20 and 24 miles from 7th Division at Osan (2). The thrust nearly isolates three to six Red divisions in Southwest Korea. Old Pusan beachhead perimeter was further expanded as South Koreans met little resistance advancing on Yonghae-Yechon-Hamchang line (3). U. S. 24th Division captured Yongdong (4); 2nd Division took Kocang (5), and to south 25th Division pushed 15 miles northwest of liberated Chiniu. Stiffest resistance was at Hyonpung (6) where Reds fought to hold bridgehead on Nakdong River.

Fighting Reported Blazing In Seoul But Cleanup Battles Of Liberation Are Nearly Over

Fighting Front—U. S. Marines capture South Korean capital and foreign consulate buildings in heart of burning Seoul, with mop-up battles nearing end.

U. N. forces close nose around many thousands of Reds trapped by linking of the Inchon-Seoul beachhead with the Allied southern forces.

United Nations—United States and other countries support British plan to unite all Korea as independent country with a government elected under U. N. supervision.

Tokyo, Sept. 27—(P)—American Marines captured and raised the American flag today over the South Korean national capital and foreign consulate buildings in heart of partly burned-out Seoul.

Fighting blazed on in the capital city but the cleanup battles of liberation appeared to be nearly over.

The Leathernecks fought their way into the capitol, the French and Russian consulates and the U. S. ambassador's residence against fierce Red death-stand resistance.

All are in the northern, modern section of the lopsided city of ancient and new structures. Thousands of shattered houses marked the path of the Marine drive into the approximate center of Korea's 500-year capital which the Reds took three months ago Thursday.

Seoul shuddered and rocked Wednesday under massive barrages of fire and steel.

Small pockets of the die-hard Reds still were resisting. The Leathernecks fought through winding alleys and from house to house to oust them.

By late Wednesday afternoon, only a small section of Seoul still was in Red Korean hands, AP correspondent Tom Lambert reported from the Seoul front. Lambert rode in a jeep past shell-blasted buildings and reported the raising of the American flag.

Lambert's dispatch was filed at 6:59 p. m. (4:56 a. m., EST).

Official sources said United Nations forces killed, wounded or captured nearly 6,000 Reds along the entire Korean battlefield on Tuesday.

While Marines fought to clear the Reds out of Seoul, other Allied forces closed their nose around many thousands of Reds trapped and thinned by desertions and casualties in southeast Korea.

The Allied line runs unbroken for 215 miles diagonally across the peninsula from extreme southeastern Pusan on the Sea of Japan, through the flaming mop-up battles of Seoul, to the Inchon second front, beachhead on the Yellow Sea.

The Reds once got within 30 miles of Pusan.

The Allied line was spliced together at Changji, 25 miles south of Seoul.

An armored First Cavalry task force from the south sped 106 miles through Red territory to close the gap between the two fronts.

Bodies of Yanks With Arms Bound Found In Chinju

Tokyo, Sept. 27—(P)—General MacArthur's headquarters said today the bodies of 12 American soldiers with arms bound were discovered in Chinju Tuesday by the U. S. 25th Division.

Two other men, wounded but still alive, said 14 of them had been prisoners.

Headquarters reported they said when the North Koreans realized Chinju, on the extreme south Korean front, was about to fall they tied the Americans together, marched them into a ravine and turned machineguns on them.

The two survivors were wounded seriously but escaped by shamming death.

Headquarters said the body of a North Korean was found among those of the murdered Americans.

The dead Red was reported to have refused to help kill the Americans.

General MacArthur's headquarters release said the wounded Americans had no food or water for five days.

His summary said one survivor was able to give an eye-witness account of the mass murder even (Turn to Page Eight)

Emlenton Resident Is Crossing Victim

Oil City, Sept. 27—A 63-year-old resident died late Tuesday afternoon after he was struck by the Oil City-Pittsburgh Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train at the Main street crossing in Emlenton, according to County Coroner Dr. Maurice Dinberg.

The victim was Robert E. Campbell, retired rural mail carrier of the Kerndell and Clintonville district, where he formerly had resided.

He was hit by the locomotive while walking across the tracks at approximately 5:10 p. m. He was rushed in an ambulance to the Oil City hospital but on arrival was pronounced dead.

Dr. Dinberg issued a certificate of accidental death. According to his report, the man suffered multiple fractures of the ribs, chest and a fractured skull.

The body was removed to the Criswell funeral home, Emlenton. Funeral arrangements will be announced.

Local Soldier Hurt In Korean Fighting

Sgt. Charles S. Rowland, of 312 Beech street, who was wounded early this month while fighting with the 2nd Division in Korea, is now undergoing treatment at a military hospital in Japan, according to word received here by his wife, Mary.

It was the second time that Sgt. Rowland has been wounded. He previously has been awarded the Purple Heart for battle wounds received while fighting in Italy during World War II.

North and South U. N. Forces Link Up In the Tiny Walled Town of Changji

Changji, Korea, Sept. 26—(P)—Northern and Southern United Nations forces in Korea linked up today at this tiny walled town.

A powerful tank-led First Cavalry Division task force made the junction with units of the Seventh Infantry Division.

The American outposts were joined after a lightning dash by the First Cavalry spearhead through Communist-held territory.

The junction was made at 10:25 p. m. (8:25 a. m., EST) after the task force beat back a last ditch Red attack to block the join-up miles north of Osan.

The last leg of the linkup power drive jumped off from Poun at 11:15 a. m. Tuesday, (9:15 p. m., EST Monday).

The junction was made about half way between Suwon and Osan at this village known as Changji.

Small groups of confused and stunned North Korean troops watched the American advance from Poun.

Lieutenant Robert Walker, a tank commander who led the American spearhead, said 79 Communists were killed and five trucks, three jeeps, four motorcycles and about 25 bicycles were destroyed.

One American was killed by a direct hit from an anti-tank gun. He was the only American casualty of the long dash.

All the troopers were glad the successful jaunt was over.

Sgt. Arthur Lorelli of Indiana, Pa., said he "got a big kick out of it but I was nervous as hell at times."

Maj. Gen. David G. Barr, commander of the seventh divisions, personally congratulated Baker and his men.

Pvt. Harry E. Roland of 47 Copley road, Upper Darby, Pa., shook hands with the general.

Jamestown Police Chief Dies After a Lengthy Illness

Jamestown, N. Y., Sept. 27—G. Harry Nelson, 53, chief of police of Jamestown since Jan. 1, 1940, died at his home in the Wilcox Apartments, East Fifth street, at 2:40 a. m. yesterday, Sept. 26, 1950, following an illness from cancer, which forced him from his work nearly four months ago.

Chief Nelson became a member of the Jamestown Police Department March 11, 1929, when he was detailed to traffic duty. Following the resignation of Oscar C. Bergdahl, Mr. Nelson was named a lieutenant in charge of the traffic division on Nov. 20, 1939.

He was named as chief on Jan. 1, 1940, and served in that capacity until his death yesterday.

On last Memorial Day he became ill after supervising traffic in connection with the parade and was unable to work since that time.

During the summer he was flown to Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore and returned to his home a few days later.

Chief Nelson was a member of the Juvenile Delinquency Committee of the International Association of Police Chiefs, of which he was also a vice president. He was also a past president of the New York State Association of Police Chiefs.

He was a veteran of World War I, having served with Co. B, 28th Infantry, First Division, and was a holder of the Purple Heart with two clusters. He took part in several major offensives and was with the first Yank contingent to land in France. He was wounded twice and gassed.

Besides his parents and wife, he (Turn to Page Eight)

REAL ESTATE DEMAND WILL CONTINUE GOOD

Pittsburgh, Sept. 27—(P)—Demand in the real estate market will be good for the next six to nine months although limited somewhat by government credit restrictions, according to a Philadelphia economist.

Dr. Clay J. Anderson of the Federal Reserve Bank at Philadelphia told the Pennsylvania Realtors Association yesterday there will be less than usual slowdown of business levels in the spring of 1951. Production, employment and income will continue high, he said.

First Football Team in 28th Division Is Organized By Saddened Field Artillery

Camp Atterbury, Ind., Sept. 27—(P)—The 109th Field Artillery Battalion—whose ranks were riddled Sept. 10 in a troop train wreck which killed 33 soldiers—has fielded the first football team in the 28th Division.

The undaunted former National Guardsmen from the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., area will meet the junior varsity of nearby Franklin College on the Franklin high school's gridiron next Monday.

The Canoneers, as Capt. Luther Richards calls his 35-man outfit, will play with equipment and uniforms bought through a $3,000 athletic fund contributed by Wilkes-Barre citizens.

The train crash at Coshocton, O., cut a terrible swathe in the ranks of the 109th Artillerymen and units of the 109th Infantry, all from the Wyoming valley of northeastern Pennsylvania. The dead included six players and one assistant coach of the fledgling football team.

Richards—whose military job is battalion liaison officer—in civilian life is coach of Wilkes-Barre's G. A. R. high school. He formerly starred for Pitt as a guard.

One of the big hurdles which confronted football-conscious units had been the lack of playing fields. However, several gridirons have been laid out and are being conditioned for use.

The Canoneers are arranging more games with small Indiana colleges and prep schools. Some of the tilts probably will be played on Atterbury fields when they are completed.

PAY HIKE IN ALLEGHENY

Pittsburgh, Sept. 27—(P)—More than 3,600 Allegheny county employees will get a 10 per cent pay boost on October 1. The raise will add about $1,037,127 to the county's 1951 budget.

50,000 U. N. Troops Are Available As Army of Occupation For Korean Service

Washington, Sept. 27—(P)—If the United Nations undertakes to restore peace and order in North Korea, American officials figure that other member countries have 50,000 troops available for the job without U. S. help.

The United States is telling U. N. members in informal negotiations that they will have to carry the main burden if the current military drive in South Korea crosses the 38th parallel or if the U. N. decides to place an army of occupation in North Korea after the fighting stops.

This attitude is grounded in an American disavowal of any territorial or permanent military interest in Korea. It also is aimed at quieting any possible Russian fears that this nation is edging in for a position from which a blow might be aimed at the Soviet.

Any such plans are based on an assumption that Russian or Chinese Communist troops will not move into Korea.

Fate of 300 to 400 Prisoners - of - War Is Still a Mystery

Tokyo, Sept. 27—(P)—The whereabouts of some 300 to 400 Allied prisoners-of-war reported liberated in Seoul remained a mystery tonight. They apparently had been taken from the Korean capital by the Reds.

General MacArthur's war summary reported at 3:20 p. m. that 400 prisoners had been rescued. A field dispatch at 6:59 p. m., from A. P. Correspondent Tom Lambert said army units in Seoul found a list of prisoners but no prisoners.

"Koreans said the American POWs had been moved out of Seoul within the past several days," Lambert added.

Evidently the list—which was relayed to U. S. 10th Corps headquarters—was the basis for the terse line in MacArthur's war summary.

A. P. Correspondent Bill Ross had relayed a report from Korea (Turn to Page Eight)

5,624 Called Up To Meet the Nov. Call

Harrisburg, Sept. 27—(P)—State draft headquarters called up 5,624 more Pennsylvanians today for physical examinations to meet a November induction quota of 4,762.

The new batch of men, all from boards in western Pennsylvania, increases to 13,000 the number of 19 through 25-year-olds facing pre-induction physicals next month.

Henry M. Gross, state selective service director, said another 5,000 men from eastern Pennsylvania also will be called up in the next day or two to complete a roster of 18,000 to be examined for the November quota.

All of the 18,000 will undergo physical examination in October. Draft boards will send successful registrants into the service in November.

About 45 are expected to attend.

Sheffield High School Preparing For Annual Homecoming Program Sept. 30

Sheffield High School is once again preparing for its annual Homecoming, with the date set for September 30, when the Sheffield Wolverines meet Smethport High Hubbers on the gridiron.

As in previous years, the High School Band is in charge of the affair, planning the arrangements under the direction of Loren Wright.

Perhaps one of the most important events of the entire celebration is the election of the Homecoming Queen and her two attendants.

The girls, who are selected from the senior class by vote of the student body, are chosen not only for beauty, but for popularity and high standing in the school.

Their identity is not disclosed until the big parade is held just prior to the game. In the parade are both the Sheffield and Smethport bands, along with floats from each home room, and the Vets' black-face drill team. Merchants are asked to decorate their windows to add to the festive atmosphere.

The parade will form at 12:30 p. m. on Pickering, Whipple and Center streets and will move at 1:00.

After the football game, there will be informal get-togethers to talk over the good old days.

WSCS Anniversary

Methodist women of Warren and surrounding communities are joining the million and one-half women of the denomination in America in celebrating the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Woman's Society for Christian Service.

Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Warren's First Methodist church, Mrs. W. E. Landrum, field worker of the Woman's Division of the church at large, will speak to women of First church and their invited guests from Grace and Epworth churches in Warren borough, from Sheffield, Clarendon, Stoneham, Irvine, Youngsville, Garland and Russell. Her message will be one to inspire women to greater effort in the Advance for Christ and His Church.

Preceding the evening meeting, a tureen dinner will be held in Founders Hall by women of First church to honor Mrs. Landrum and charter members of the local WSCS unit, which was formed ten years ago under the pastorate of Dr. T. E. Colley.

At this tenth anniversary, it is unique to have as the present pastor of First church, Dr. Arthur Colley, brother of the man who helped form the WSCS.

First church women will all want to welcome Rev. and Mrs. Colley and greet their distinguished guest, Mrs. Landrum.

Canteen Committee Meets at Y. M. C. A.

The program committee of the youth unit of the Warren Canteen held a successful meeting at the YMCA last evening under the chairmanship of Pat MacCarthy. Final work was done on revising of the proposed constitution for the canteen by committee members and will be presented for passage by Miss MacCarthy at tonight's meeting of the youth unit.

During the session this evening, which will be held at the "Y" at 7:30 o'clock, reports will be made from the work committee and from representatives who meet with the Junior Chamber of Commerce members to make plans for the Vaudeville Show. PLAN FOR DEFENSE AGAINST AGGRESSION

Nobody can say U. S. foreign affairs experts aren't trying. Our new plan for world defense against aggression, laid before the United Nations, shows great effort and imagination.

We propose:
To put the UN General Assembly on 24 hours call to deal with any new aggression in the event Russia hamstring the Security Council.

To create a "peace patrol" to investigate promptly any area where trouble threatens.

To establish a special UN military force contributed to by each member nation, to be held in constant readiness for action against an aggressor.

To create a UN committee to consider how to use collective action, including armed force, to carry out UN charter aims.

We go beyond measures of this type to suggest establishment of a UN "recovery force" to help rehabilitate and raise economic standards in backward or war-devastated countries. We recommend that such a force move into liberated Korea first.

And we advise that Formosa, controversial Pacific bastion, have its ultimate fate settled by the UN rather than by individual nations.

Not since the General Assembly session of 1947 has the U. S. come up with such a haul. But, of course, merely proposing is just a bare beginning. All these plans must be carefully weighed as to merit, worked out in detail, and pushed through over the opposition of Russia and her satellites.

Most difficult, obviously, would be to set up a UN military force. Russia has managed in the past to block every effort toward this end. She may still have some tricks left. But if it can be done legally under the General Assembly, where there is no veto, the obstacles are probably not insurmountable.

UN members generally have been criticized for not supplying ground force aid to the U. S. and other armies fighting in Korea. Yet there were numerous offers. U. S. commanders felt compelled to reject many because of supply problems, inadequate training and lack of sufficient size in the offered units. A UN force would have its own military advisers and training officers to weld the various components into an effective fighting force, equipped for immediate action.

America's program shows a high determination to surmount the Russian roadblock and work with other nations for peace—or at least to prevent little wars from growing into general conflict.

And our proposals show, too, that we understand that the free world must do more than simply halt aggressors; it must make life in a free society of nations worth living. Hence the suggested "recovery force" is a vital complementary part of the program.

The U. S. recommendations, if examination proves them feasible in detail, should gain the overwhelming support of the non-Communist UN members, and be placed in effect at the earliest moment.

HATS OFF TO THE NAVY!

The country ought to doff its cap to the Navy for its magnificent part in the Allied landings in the Inchon Bay area.

Experts are agreed that no landing in World War II or any other war was as difficult. The tides at Inchon run to 31 feet. Only or three days out of every month are water conditions suitable for amphibious landings.

The Navy had to employ men who had never before participated in such an operation. Indeed, some had never operated the kinds of vessels used.

The landings came off without a hitch. They were not only brilliantly executed, but loss of life was held to a remarkable minimum.

As if all this were not enough, naval big guns standing 10 to 15 miles offshore have been functioning in the area virtually as Army field artillery. Time after time they have successfully blasted pin-pointed enemy emplacements, clearing the way for advancing Marines.

The men who carried out this entire task should live in U. S. military history.

Getting nowhere should make people get sick of letting well-enough alone—but in lots of cases it doesn't.

You Can Tell 'Em Apart by the Shape of Their Ears

Here And There

This And That: We're indebted to some unidentified acquaintance for sending us a copy of the 1850-1850 Centennial Edition of The Standard-Times, New Bedford, Mass. . . . And from a local reader we acknowledge a copy of The Bermuda Mid-Ocean News, published at Hamilton, September 18th which makes interesting reading. . . . The draft contingent that left Warren two weeks ago tomorrow sends the following appreciative note back to Al Arnold, commander of the VFW and members of the committee that arranged the informal send-off ceremonies: "We fellows of the September 21 draft wish to thank you for the cigarettes and trust that everything on the home front will keep turning as usual." . . . Ivan R. Brumagum, of this city, will be a delegate from the synod to the biennial Lutheran convention at Des Moines, Ia., October 4 to 12. . . . It was disappointing news for many in Warren to learn that Elizabeth Scott, Hollywood film actress, called off her scheduled tour with the Pennsylvania Week train, October 12 to 22. Previous commitments made it necessary for her to cancel her appearance. . . . Hear about the woman who couldn't see Monday night's eclipse of the moon and telephoned the newspaper in her home town to ask if "it had been postponed?" . . . Leo Cook, manager of the St. Callistus Knot Hole Baseball Team at Kane, and John Migliaccio, representing the team, were guests at the luncheon meeting of the Kane Rotary Club Monday, when the representatives were presented with the George E. Smith Memorial Trophy for winning the championship of the Kane Knot-Hole League. . . . A plea for tightening of plant protection and enlargement of safety programs in industrial plants was made by speakers at an industrial safety conference held Monday evening in the Emory Hotel, Bradford. The meeting, attended by representatives of approximately thirty industries in McKean county, was arranged by the Department of Labor and Industry with the cooperation of the Bradford Board of Commerce. Among those present and introduced was G. R. Ball, inspector, Youngville. . . . In a pro and amateur tournament held at the Kane Country Club Monday afternoon, Steve Doctor, Kane golf pro, not only won the match but also broke the course record for nine holes with a 31, and 18 holes with 64. This new mark shatters the previous mark set by Doctor last week at 65 for 18 holes. Toby Lyons carded a 68, and Dick Krapfel, also of this city, finished with a 75. . . . During the past couple days while ye columnist was sidetracked on the advice of a couple medicos, copy for this department was furnished by a member of the staff. Thanks a lot, there's no doubt the readers enjoyed the change.

Morning Roundup: Harry Dille-muth, janitor at the Warren Public Library, and wife, were in Washington last week attending the wedding of a relative and enjoying the sights. . . . Failure of Jamestown's 1950 Falcons to arouse the interest and support of fans of that area this year has thrown the Municipal Stadium fund for a $5,000 loss, according to Donald W. Swanson, city controller. An all-time record low attendance graced the turnstiles for the Falcon games this year when 63,412 paid admissions were recorded, Swanson reveals. Thus lowered the return to the city for stadium rental from $12,270, the sum contributed by the flag-contending 1949 Falcons, to approximately $6,500. . . . An early frost will hit hard at farmers' hopes for a big corn crop in this area. About two weeks of good hot weather are needed to mature the milky ears, it is said. . . . The 1950 scholastic football season is only three weeks old but three Class A schools in the district still boast perfect records. In addition to Corry, they are Titusville and Erie East. . . . Ted Marchibroda of Franklin, St. Bonaventure College's aerial artist, sparked the Bonnies to their second straight victory Saturday, a 29-14 triumph over Houston College. . . . The Pennsylvania Gas Commission is readying an all-out campaign emphasizing safety for the fall season. . . . The Woltz Aerial Surveys of Des Moines, Ia., has completed mapping Crawford, Warren and Erie counties from the air. The work for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was done by Glenn Miller, pilot, and Frank Carlson, photographer, at a height of 16,000 feet. . . . Reports from Camp Atterbury where men of Company I along with other units in the 28th Division are in training are that housing rentals have been almost doubled since they arrived there. It is estimated that 750 persons are still seeking homes in the vicinity of the camp. . . . Sixty years ago today, according to the Evening Mirror of September 27, 1890, "A small wagon showed up en route to Youngville. Warren was not considered large enough for the aggregation to stop at."

Criminals' Link With Politicos Revealed by Senate Crime Body

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—In addition to having broken up one major gambling syndicate in Florida and causing a big group of county officials to be indicted, the Senate committee investigating organized crime in the U. S. has gotten a new, accurate picture of the nature of criminal activities in the country.

The group, headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), has confirmed much of what has been written about the existence of big syndicates which operate on a nationwide basis.

This confirmation is important because many law enforcing agencies have tied to play down the interstate character of these vicious criminal organizations. It has been charged that the use of the words "powerful national syndicates" is just an excuse of local law enforcing officials for not cracking down on local crime conditions.

A COMMITTEE spokesman has this to say about the syndicates: "These criminal organizations have succeeded in monopolizing certain of the channels of interstate communications and commerce by means of violence, bribery, corruption and intimidation. It is clear, moreover, that there are several strong and powerful organizations with lines of interrelationship between them which makes it feasible at least occasionally to combine their activities."

Perhaps one of the most significant findings of the committee is the way the gangsters have gotten into legitimate business. Rudolph Halley, the group's chief counsel, says: "Lawless individuals, frequently using their criminal organizations, have engaged in various legitimate enterprises, where they use the same tactics of intimidation and monopolization which characterize their criminal activities."

Halley explains in a report that "they have particularly been attracted to enterprises in which large amounts of cash are handled or which have had black-market profiteering potentialities, such as hotels, restaurants, night clubs, meat and provision companies, liquor stores, beer and whisky distributorships and small steel companies."

It is easy to charge that criminal elements use bribery and corruption to buy protection from state, city and county officials. It's another thing to get the facts on it. Sen. Kefauver's committee has done just that. Here is a typical example of one of its findings: "Melvin J. Richard, a councilman of the city of Miami Beach, testified that Phil Short, a lieutenant of the Miami Beach police force, who formerly had been chief of police, admitted to him that he had orders from the city manager to refrain from raiding gambling operations. Short admitted to Richard that the operations could easily be closed down and that on two occasions they had been closed down, but he stated he had been ordered to allow the gambling to stay open."

IT is this kind of thing that the committee is determined to expose in many of the big cities of the country. And the story of the inroads which criminal influence has made in politics does not stop at the city level, the committee has found. Specific evidence has already been gathered on corruption among state officials.

Further, there is evidence linking Washington officials in the syndicates. However, the committee is silent about this aspect of the case. The significance of the surprisingly effective job the committee has done in the first few months of its existence is that it has found a method of investigation which produces results. And the fact that it is a congressional body, with the power of subpoena and the authority to look into any suspicious activity of underworld characters, regardless of whether that activity is covered by federal legislation, has made it strong enough to come with the powerful syndicate bosses.

IT MAY TAKE YEARS
(Editor's Note: This is the second of two stories explaining the government's problems in trying to get Communists registered under the new anti-Communist law.)

BY JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Sept. 27 — (AP)—Here is a step-by-step explanation of why—under the new anti-Communist law—it may take the government years to make Communists register, if it ever can to so.

In the first place, this law is aimed at two groups: Communist "action" organizations and Communist "front" organizations. And the law itself explains what it means by both:

1. A Communist action organization is one which is directed and controlled by Moscow, and secretly plans to overthrow this government by force.

2. A Communist front is run by a Communist action organization, although perhaps concealing its true purpose, and may even have members who not only are not Communists but may be innocent of its nature.

But who's going to decide whether some organization is a Communist action group or a Communist front? The subversive Activities Control Board, a five-man board to be appointed by the president.

This board won't go out looking for Communists. It will decide whether an organization is Communist "action" or "front" or neither, only when the attorney general—

Complains to the board that some outfit is an action group (or front) and asks the board to order it to register as such. If he can prove his point, in the board's opinion, it will order the outfit to register.

So much for the background. Now here's how it probably will work.

The law says all Communist or front organizations must register within 30 days after this act became law over President Truman's veto, which was Saturday, Sept. 23. But—there's no penalty if they don't.

And Saturday night Communist party leaders said they won't register.

When the 30 days are up and they haven't registered, the attorney general can, for instance, ask the board to declare the American Communist Party an action organization and to order it to register.

He'll have to offer proof, which undoubtedly will mean documents and witnesses. If the party leaders didn't appear before the board to defend themselves, the board could declare the party an action outfit and order them to register.

(Once the board ordered the party to register and it ignored

Sore Throat
of colds. Rub VapoRub on throat... chest. Melt some in mouth. Tool the order, the leaders and the members could be tried, jailed and fined.)

But assume the leaders appear before the board to defend themselves and the party. This trial—or, rather, examination—might take months.

But say the board hears all the evidence, decides the Communist party is an action organization, and orders it to register. Does it have to do so immediately?

No. It can appeal to the U. S. Court of Appeals, asking the court to rule that the board's order is illegal and its decision wrong.

If the appeals court upholds the board, the Communists still can appeal to the supreme court. And all this legal sparring might take three years or more.

But if the supreme court upholds the board and the appeals court, then the party finally is considered an action organization and must register. But—

If the communists still refuse to register, the government at last can arrest them and put them on trial for refusing to register. That's not the end.

If convicted, they can then appeal to the U. S. court of appeals. If turned down there, they still can appeal to the supreme court. If the supreme court turns them down, then they must go to jail.

But by this time maybe four years will have elapsed since Saturday, Sept. 23, 1950, when this anti-communist law went into effect.

YOUNGVILLE GIRL SCOUTS-MOTHERS MEET

Youngville, Sept. 26—On Monday evening, Youngville Girl Scout mothers and daughters enjoyed a delightful dinner-meeting in the American Legion Home.

Starting off the autumn season, the girls already have some fine plans for this year. The girls are showing a splendid spirit of self reliance. Instead of a house to house campaign, the girls are planning to have cookie sales, bake sales, a rummage sale. If these projects are well supported, a door to door canvass will not be necessary.

The Girl Scouts arranged an interesting window in town showing Girl Scout clothing, their manual and the Seven Steps necessary to become a Girl Scout. Another window is to be shown for Girl Scout Week, the last of October.

Leaders of the Youngville school Scouts for the year are: Brownie Troop 45, Dorothy McAllister; Brownie Troop 18, Esther McCormick, with assistant Catherine Anderson; Troop 58, Helen Piper, assisted by Mary Johnson; Troop 54, Myrna Kirk.

GIVES SHOWER FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Mrs. William Ullrich was hostess for a pre-nuptial shower which honored her daughter, Clara, a bride of Saturday. The affair was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Ralph O'Donnell, who with a sister-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Ullrich, were hostesses.

Neighbors and friends spent a pleasant evening of games and refreshments served at a table attractively appointed in pink and green. Fifteen pastel tapered set in a crystal bowl of white flowers formed the centerpiece and miniature pastel colored wedding bells served as favors.

The honored one received many beautiful and useful gifts from the following guests: Mrs. Mary Eagan, Mrs. Josephine Wozniak, Mrs. Joseph Damond, Mrs. Harry O'Donnell, Mrs. Maurice Stillwell, Mrs. Bert Sadler, Mrs. John Fossell, Mrs. Edward Hartnett, Mrs. Donald Edinger, Mrs. Merle Faust, Mrs. Leo Rich, Josephine Ennis, Theresa Scallise, Frances Ullrich, and the hostesses.

VFW AUXILIARY PLANNING PARTY

All members of Dinsmoor-Schwing Auxiliary, VFW, are asked to turn out for the meeting to be held in the post rooms at 8 p. m. Thursday, when plans will be completed for holding a Gold Star Mothers' party. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

A group of post and auxiliary members enjoyed a trip by bus to Deacon Hospital in Butler last Sunday, greeting the three local men, George Brader, Elmer Olsen and "Bud" Mesler, who were glad to see home folks.

Cigarettes, candy and socks were distributed to male patients, with candy, sewing materials and crocheted cotton for the women. Each auxiliary member making the trip took several small gifts to be used by the VFW Hospital chairman as prizes for bingo parties held each month.

A tour of the hospital was made by the group, under the supervision of Mr. Nelson, chief of special services, and proved interesting to all.

For GOOD-ness Sake

By Betty Rice

On September 19, Warren State Hospital was the scene of the first out-of-borough Red Cross blood collection with well over a hundred men and women on hand to give a pint of blood to the great program. Residents of North Warren were contacted personally by fellow neighbors and friends. The door-to-door campaign was under the direction of Gerald Rickerson who was capably assisted by the following: Mrs. Ward Proper, Mrs. Peter Stilwell, Mrs. Florence Burghardt, Mrs. Raymond Ledebur, Mrs. Kenneth Barrett, Mrs. Chester Dunham, Mrs. Esther Swanson, Mrs. Esther Beckett, Mrs. Charles Hudson, Mrs. Gertrude Lundahl, Mrs. Georgia Pepke, Mrs. Alice Chase, Mrs. Donald Huck, Mrs. William Kenny, Mrs. Milton Peterson, Mrs. James Cruickshank, Mrs. Charles Hamilton, Miss Lola Johnson, Mrs. Gerald Rickerson, Mrs. Leo Patsky and Mrs. Stanley Lawson. These people with those who gave blood deserve the thanks of all because all stand to benefit from the Red Cross Blood program. The bloodmobile returns to Warren in October.

In cities, towns and villages throughout the nation countless individuals are striving to assure the successful fund raising. ZIP-COATS

"Changeable as the weather" can be a compliment! In fact, it's the nicest thing you can say about a coat! And you can say it over and over about ZIP-COATS from Betty Lee. They're twice as useful as any ordinary coat because of the wind and weather-defying lining that zips in or out in a matter of seconds for right-around-the-calendar wear. Vienna Is Stirred By Disturbances Led By Communists

Vienna, Sept. 27 — (AP)—New Communist-led disturbances broke out in Vienna today. Communist bands, apparently with Russian approval, tied up streetcar traffic and were reported to have cut two rail lines into the capital.

It was the second day of such disturbances which allied officials are coming to call a "little blockade" reminiscent of the days in Germany before the Berlin blockade. Vienna, like Berlin, is an island deep inside the Soviet zone of occupation.

While the new disturbances were taking place, some 50,000 workers in the Soviet-controlled factories of Austria went on strike protesting a new Austrian government announcement that prices will increase along with wages.

Western authorities said the main aim of the disturbances was to embarrass the western occupation powers. Austrian government sources reported the Russians ordered Austrian police in their zone not to interfere in strikes and demonstrations.

A shouting, disorderly crowd of some 3,000 Communists jammed a main street in the Russian sector of the city at noon, disabling several trucks and blocking all traffic for two hours. Shopkeepers, fearing riots, boarded up their windows.

The crowd attempted to march to the center of the city, where yesterday they had stoned a British hotel and held possession of the city's main intersection, the famed Ringstrasse in the International Zone, for almost an hour before being dispersed by police.

Philadelphia, Sept. 27 — (AP)—An arbitrator board announced today it has reached an agreement that will give 10,000 full fashioned hosiery workers across the nation a pay boost averaging 25 cents an hour. The board said the increases are retroactive to Sept. 1.

Harrisburg, Sept. 27 — (AP)—W. Thomas Senseman, Jr., former Harrisburg city controller, is the new secretary of the state board of pharmacy. The appointment was announced as the new board, named recently by Gov. James H. Duff, held its first meeting here yesterday.

Letters to the Editor

September 27, 1950.
Warren Times-Mirror
Warren, Pennsylvania

To the Editor:

It amazed me to learn that so few people turned out to hear Judge Musmanno at the Court House in Warren last Monday evening. Something must have gone radically wrong with the Democratic Party or its leadership in Warren County.

This is the first time the Democrats have had an opportunity to elect a state administration in Pennsylvania since 1836. I well recall the campaign of that year. On the occasion of Geo. H. Earle's visit to Warren, S. E. Walker, who was then Democratic County Chairman, engaged the Columbia Theatre building for the event. Every available inch of sitting and standing room was occupied and it became necessary to install a loud speaker for the benefit of the crowd outside.

That year we elected our Governor and the vote cast for him in Warren County was a surprise even to the Democrats themselves. The result here this year should be the same; however, indications are that it will not be.

It is lamentable that with the Nation so permanently Democratic a county should so isolate itself. No party can succeed without an organization and leadership which has the confidence of the voters. Warren county seems to have lost such leadership.

Old Line Democrat.

in disorder—in a rout at some places—all along the battlefield. But suicide rear-guard units, ranging in size from a few troops to thousands, fought bitter delaying actions.

At the linkup AP Correspondent Bill Ross said First Cavalry tanks rammed through a last-ditch Red attack to join Seventh Infantry Division units from Inchon-Seoul in the walled town of Changi, about 25 miles south of Seoul. The task force raced the last 55 miles through Red territory in one day.

Two weeks ago, just before the Inchon landing, the Reds had an estimated 130,000 troops massed against the Pusan perimeter. United Nations forces in their massive breakout starting Sept. 15 killed thousands of Reds. Hundreds of Communists surrendered. Thousands still are fighting, in scattered pockets of resistance.

AP Correspondent Don Whitehead said the retreat of Red divisions from the southern front is the big puzzle of the war. Many Reds in the south have been reported changing from battle dress to civilian clothing and retreating cross-country in hopes of reaching their homes and families in the north.

Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, commanding the 10th Corps, said his liberation force had accomplished in 11 days since Sept. 15 the prime objectives of the second front operation. It slashed Red supply lines and forced Communist troops to pull back in disorder from the southeastern front, Almond pointed out.

Moose Delegation To Attend Meeting

A large representation of members of the Warren Lodge of Moose and their wives are planning to attend the 14th annual state convention of the order which opens tomorrow morning at Pittsburgh and extends through Sunday.

Headquarters for the Moose sessions will be the William Penn hotel, while the Women of the Moose will hold their convention sessions in the Roosevelt hotel.

A troupe of 21 nationally known radio and stage stars will present a special show at Syria Mosque on Sunday for those attending the convention. The following day, the troupe will be sent by the Moose Lodge to Alaska to entertain American soldiers stationed there. The trip will be made from Pittsburgh by an Army Air Force plane and will extend over a 21-day period. Expenses of the troupe are being defrayed through contributions by Moose lodges throughout this area.

could get radio news by going to their car radios.

Dr. A. F. Yerg, chairman of the medical division, reported plans are being discussed for first aid treatment by mobile teams who could give aid to large crowds in short time. Plans are being made to handle the overflow from Pittsburgh should that city be bombed; but Dr. Yerg said that bandages and supplies are needed at once. He also stated that a lack of blood supply would be our biggest problem in case Buffalo were knocked out by the enemy during a war.

M. A. Kornreich is in charge of the evacuation and dispersal division and gave a report of the space available for evacuees in schools and churches. Joe Gardner and Len Donaldson reported that other surveys are being made to list every available building, home, camps, cottages, and all buildings that could be used for evacuee centers.

B. S. Knabenshue, representing the Red Cross, stated that it could go on a production schedule for making bandages, but that there is a need for first aid instructors. The certifications of first aid instructors during the last war have now expired.

Otto Mayer, of Sheffield, has been placed in charge of technical defense and told the council he is lining up his personnel. Knox Harper has been named head of the auxiliary division and is making a survey of all organizations in the county which will be used in the civilian defense program. Others who spoke included Burgess William Crosssett and Judge Allison D. Wade, county coordinator of civilian defense.

Lions Club Blind Project Is Reviewed

Preparations by the Lions Club for its annual Daisy Sale on Friday and Saturday of this week include a review of cases aided through the service group's blind fund.

In the period dating May, 1949, to May, 1950, 133 patients were taken to offices of physicians for examination; 123 pairs of glasses were purchased from funds; 28 cases were aided through having glasses repaired; one glass eye was purchased; and 11 children were taken to the orthopedic clinic in Erie. In all, the work covered during this period amounted to an expenditure of $2,000.

Funds to carry on this work are obtained by the Lions Club in its fall Daisy Sale and it is hoped that Friday and Saturday collections will be generous.

Both wounded Americans were flown to a hospital in Japan. AP correspondent Stan Swinton with the 25th Division reported 12 American bodies were found Tuesday at Chinju. RECOVERS VALUABLES

The many friends of Mrs. Mary Corah, executive secretary of the Warren County Motor Club, who had the misfortune to inadvertently leave a coin purse containing a diamond ring, rosary and bracelet in an alligator bag that was sold during the Zonta Club rummage sale last Friday, will be pleased to learn that the purchaser of the bag contacted Mrs. Corah this afternoon informing her that the contents of the purse were intact and will be returned. Needless to say Mrs. Corah is very happy over the recovery of the articles, each of which is cherished because of personal sentimental attachments.

Witnesses Balk At Taking the Stand

Pittsburgh, Sept. 27 — (AP)—Two witnesses who balked at testifying in the state's free work probe in Pittsburgh face court action compelling them to talk.

Special Prosecutor W. Denning Stewart said he will ask a court order forcing both Howard Gross and George Manko to testify. If they refuse, Stewart said, he will ask that they be cited for contempt.

In his petition for a grand jury to investigate Pittsburgh's city government, Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti accused Gross and Manko of misuse of city labor and materials.

Attorney Paul McArdle, who represents Gross and Manko, said: "I have questioned the power and authority of the attorney general to conduct these proceedings and compel them (Gross and Manko) to give any testimony whatsoever."

numerous controversial items on the agenda.

The Security Council, after a long procedural wrangle yesterday afternoon, voted to admit the Republic of Indonesia as the U. N.'s 60th member. Approval by the assembly, was considered certain. But the Council deferred until a meeting this afternoon another debate on inviting a Chinese Communist spokesman to come here for Council discussion of Russia's charges that U. S. policy on Formosa constitutes aggression against China.

The policy debates in the General Assembly continued meantime. Eighteen nations and Secretary-General Trygve Lie were still to be heard when the assembly convened today, leading off with Ecuador.

Robert Schuman, French foreign minister and last of the Big Five to speak in the Assembly, built his scheduled address around sympathetic endorsement of U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson's proposals to strengthen the assembly for future collective action against aggression.

He also was expected to praise the U. N. and United States effort in Korea and coordinated economic moves for peace in Europe.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

Arnold Kimmel, 21, of Johnstown, was rushed to Warren General Hospital by Borden ambulance shortly after noon today, after he was found lying unconscious on the highway near Sheffield. Kimmel is employed by the S. J. Groves and Son Construction Co., of Johnstown. Construction workers later discovered that Kimmel apparently had suffered an electrical shock when the boom of a power shovel came in contact with a high tension wire. Kimmel was an oiler on the shovel. The operator was unhurt, since his platform is mounted on insulating rubber.

DOUBLE WEDDING

By Adelaide Humphries

Chapter 6

THE day was to come when Stephanie would be able to look back and laugh at her first reaction to the new home Sandy had found for them. And, it was to be admitted, not only to the place itself, but its occupant, Sandy's uncle.

Stephanie had met a great many odd people through her mother, who always cultivated anyone at all unusual. But even with such groundwork, she was not prepared for a Quentin Vaughn.

When Sandy returned from his trip into the city to tell her they had been offered the hospitality of his uncle's room, Stephanie had pictured him, as one will without anything to build upon, as a nice kind old gentleman mellowed with age and somewhat unvalued with arthritis.

After she met Uncle Quentin she was no longer so surprised. She supposed Sandy was well, a little bit ashamed of him. Not because he was such an odd person, but he was uneducated, loud, and flashy.

This was her first impression of Sandy's uncle, one she thought she was careful to hide. She was just a little ashamed of her feeling, as she supposed, Sandy was too. Stephanie was not a snob, but Sandy's uncle was, to put it mildly, impossible.

His home—their home now, at least temporarily—was almost as bad. It was in one of those converted houses, what had once, in better days, been considered a fine old mansion—actually an architectural monstrosity—in a neighborhood that had also seen happier days. All of the houses that had been torn down to make room for business pressing in on all sides had been made over into boarding places or apartments.

The particular one in which Sandy's uncle had a pint-sized portion of the top floor was, she supposed, no worse—no darker or dingier or more pathetic—than any of the rest. What amazed Stephanie was that apparently Sandy thought it was all right.

"Here we are," Sandy said. "It may not be very elegant, but I hope you will try to like it. After all, it constitutes our first home, Stevie." His voice sounded deliberately gay, as if he had made up his mind to be gay at any cost.

TO Stephanie's surprise, he stooped down and swept her up in his arms before she could answer, and carried her across the threshold.

She tried to match his mood, although she appeared to say, "I'm ready that sense of dismay was beginning to get the better of her. She said in a forced, cheerful voice as he put her on her feet again. "Why, Sandy! It's—it's really very nice. It doesn't have to be that."

He had put her down in the middle of the living room. The hall had been another dark square with a long corridor off it leading, she supposed, to the other rooms. This, apparently, was the only one that opened onto the outside. It had two windows, covered with heavy lace cream curtaining and over those, still heavier flowered drapes. The carpeting was flowered, too, as were some of the covers of the assorted furnishings.

Stephanie's stomach felt queer all in one collection, so many different periods and styles and woods. "It's cozy, isn't it?" Sandy said. He wore a wide grin. But he did not seem to be wearing it because he found it so cozy, but something worth grinning about; he actually looked as if he thought "cozy" an apt description.

"Quentin said that we were not only to make ourselves at home, but that you were to go ahead and change things around to suit yourself," Sandy was saying.

THE MARKETS

New York, Sept. 27 — (AP)—An under-current of recovery spread through the stock market today as an aftermath of yesterday's severe break. Prices were thoroughly mixed, all the way from $1.50 lower to more than $1 higher, but there was a slight edge for plus signs noticeable. Rails came in for a major share or trading attention but moved only a few cents either way. It was the same story for steels. Motors, however, sagged slightly. The Radio-Television group stood against the trend and posted gains of a few cents to more than a dollar.

Dragons Turn Back on Rocket Affair, Get Ready for Oil City

Warren High Dragons are through looking back at last Friday night's heartbreaker at Titusville and are working hard in preparation for this Friday's game against the Oil City Oilers at Oil City.

While it was defeat number two for the local Blue and White when the Rockets edged them 24 to 20 last weekend, the Oilers suffered their third straight loss to Greenville 13 to 0. Greenville plays host to Warren October 27.

A glance into the past shows that the Dragons were matched against the Oilers for the first time in 1913, the year after Coach J. B. Leidig began his coaching career in Warren.

Over that period the two teams have clashed 42 times, Warren winning 24 of the games, losing 13, and tying 5, three of them scoreless. The worst defeat given the Oilers was in 1916, when they received a 75 to 6 drubbing. That same year, odd as it seems, they turned around and beat Warren in a second game, 27 to 6.

For the past decade the locals have been going full blast. Everything has been going the Warren way except for a 6 to 6 tie in 1945 and a 13 to 7 shading in 1946. In the 42 contests played, the Leidigmen have racked up 650 points to their opponents' 385.

Youngsville 2nd s Edge Dragonettes

Warren High Dragonettes were edged, 14 to 12, by the Youngsville Seconds at War Memorial Field yesterday afternoon, when the big Little Eagles scored two touchdowns in the final period.

Warren's scores came in the third period. The first was scored after Youngsville fumbled a Warren punt on their own 35 and the locals recovered. The ball was worked to the 25 yard line, from where George Scalise passed to Berdine for the touchdown.

Soon after the Little Eagles punted and Scalise carried the pigskin 60 yards to touch pay dirt again on a cleverly done wall play. Both extra points failed.

Youngsville racked up both of their TD's within two minutes in the final quarter. Both plays were identical from the Warren 30 yard line, when the Warren passer was rushed and the ball popped into the air and grabbed by an Eagle and carried for a touchdown.

Jack White and L. Haight scored respectively, and Sedak made the extra points.

CHUCK HUNTER WINS MAIN BOUT AT ERIE

Erie, Sept. 26—(P)—Veteran middleweight Chuck Hunter of Cleveland decided the Cuban fighter, Marcelino Armenteros of New York, in the 10-round event of a boxing show here last night. Armenteros weighed 160 and Hunter 166.

In other bouts, Elmer Lakatos, 134, Youngstown, drew Bobby Barnes, 134, Buffalo (2); Boise Phillips, 153, Youngstown, TKO'd Russ Fremyer, 146, Buffalo (2); Eddie Flowers, 165, Erie, knocked out Ossie Johnson, 159, Buffalo (2); Bill Brady, New Castle, decided Felix Mann, 169, Buffalo (4).

That means any combination of those numbers—in victories for the Yanks or Phils and defeats for their challengers—would clinch the pennant.

The Yankees moved today into Philadelphia for two games with the last-place Athletics before finishing off against Boston at Fenway Park.

A Yankee victory linked with a single loss for Detroit and Boston thus would return the Bronx Bombardiers to familiar world series surroundings without further ado.

The Detroit Tigers, their once flaming pennant hopes chilled by a last week letdown, met the cantankerous St. Louis Browns at Detroit. Boston entertained Washington in a doubleheader. Both must keep winning to stay "alive."

The Phillies, meanwhile, already long overdue in staging their flag clinching party—moved into New York where the first item of business was a doubleheader with the New York Giants.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

"I like an honest man," said Generous George. "When I find a really honest fellow, there's nothing too good for him, in my opinion. I'll give him tricks right and left. But I hate these sneaks who go around trying to fool their fellow men."

George looked inquiringly at his opponents as if testing their honesty. What he saw must have satisfied him, since he promptly gave them a trick that they didn't at all expect to make.

West had opened the four of hearts. Dummy played low, East played the jack, and Generous George won with the ace. George led the ten of diamonds, letting it ride for a finesse. East won with the jack of diamonds and returned the queen of hearts.

This gave George the chance to take three heart tricks. However, when West played the deuce of hearts, George looked searchingly at his opponents and made his little speech about honesty.

The point of George's speech was that West had opened the four of hearts and had played the deuce of hearts on the second round of that suit. This indicated that he had started with a five-card heart suit. In that case, East

MEET GENERAL GAY OF THE CAVALRY

BY HAL BOYLE
Korea — (AP) — Sometimes it takes two wars to get to know a general.

And a few I've met—why I doubt if I could understand them if they fought through all the wars of eternity and I were condemned to report each of their battles.

They are those who regard one war only as a stepping stone from which to leap to another war and win another star. They are generals who basically don't regard an army as something to protect a country. They regard a nation as something to support an army.

There aren't many like that in the American Army but in my ignorance I once thought they all were. I thought all privates were heroes and every general was a frustrated Napoleon who secretly yearned to put all mankind in uniform in an army under his own command so he could launch a defensive war against the planet Mars.

It was the second World War and an acquaintance with Omar Nelson Bradley that taught me a general can be brilliantly able in battle and still warmly human and kind—that he can hold absolute command over thousands of men and remain humble and questioning at heart.

And one of the few things in after days I shall remember with any pleasure about this bitter footnote to world peace called the Korean War is that it gave me a chance to understand another fine general better.

He is Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, commander of the First Cavalry Division. I certainly had him labored wrong in the last war.

I knew him then as the chief of staff for Gen. George Patton in French Morocco, Sicily and France. I thought him cold and methodical, skillful in supervising the details of planning and executing battles but utterly colorless—a perfect foil for Patton.

Other correspondents tended to the same view. But there is a difference between being a chief of staff and a troop commander. Gay has shown in his present post the same quality of homely simplicity and feeling for his men that made Bradley himself so popular.

Gay's blue eyes and lanky frame are familiar to every soldier along his own battlefield. For more than 60 days his cavalrymen helped stave off the Red drive to seize Taegu, more days of continuous battle than any other division has seen.

And at every critical moment Gay has been on the danger spot in person. He often rode through mortar and sniper fire to get there. The troops under such fire themselves like a general like that.

Gay once commanded a troop of horse cavalry in Mexico as a young lieutenant and he knows how the men feel. Once I met him almost speechless with anger. He slashed at a bridge railing with the steel-bladed, leather-covered riding crop many old-time cavalrymen still carry.

The officer moving up to counter-attack had over-cautiously ordered his battle-loaded doughboys to dismount from their vehicles at the base of a long hill instead of riding them to the top.

"He ought to know better than that," said Gay. "They can't climb that hill without getting tired, and tired men can't fight their best."

There are three other pictures of the general I like to remember.

There was the time he gave the crispest battle summary I ever heard. Looking up past the shears of a Korean barber who was giving him an outdoor haircut in his command post, he said in his midwest twang:

"Well, one enemy division is trying to surround us and we are surrounding another enemy division, and right now I don't know who has got who by the tail."

And there was the time he told me:

"You know some people have an idea professional soldiers like war and want war. That isn't true. I have a son piloting a fighter plane over here. I know what war means."

That may be why he is the kind of general he is.

PAVING WORK

Work of paving South Market street is under way with the laying of blacktop being done today. This project marks the last regularly scheduled paving job in the borough this year.

NEARLY FINISHED

A report today from Max Schwank, road superintendent of Conewango township, said that work on the river road through Starbrick is nearly completed. The head walls have been built up and the sluices are in. The bridge is the only thing holding up completion. Mr. Schwank also stated that the road will not be opened Monday as originally announced, but near the middle of next week and that heavy trucks will be kept from traveling over it.

RIFLE CHAMP

Corporal Donald Holmes, of the Warren station of state police, yesterday annexed the rifle championship of Troop E in the annual rifle qualification shoot held in Erie at the Coast Guard range. Corporal Holmes turned in the remarkable score of 184 out of a possible 195, having two perfect targets in sitting and prone rapid fire. The shooting is done with 30 caliber rifles at 200 yards. Second high for the local contingent was tied by Sgt. James Vaughn and Pvt. Daniel O'Shura with 16 each. All deer are preparing to leave Warren county until after the first of the year.

Talk of the Month Club Ticket Sale Open to the Public

The Talk of the Month Club ticket sales committee met at the YWCA last evening for reports from ticket sales and decided to open the sale to the general public. Tickets which have been reserved by former members of the Club will be held for them, but an additional hundred tickets will be available because of the lecture series being held this coming season in the Woman's Club auditorium.

While the first lecture in the series is the headliner this year, Lowell Thomas, Jr., with his talk about and colored motion pictures of Tibet, the two following lectures are also nationally-known, outstanding men in their fields.

The second lecture will be given by Dr. Paul H. Giddens on the timely subject of "Oil, Politics and Religion in the Middle East." From his many years of specialization in the study of oil and its place in the economic and political life of the world, this noted lecturer discusses America's critical problems in the Middle East, the world's richest potential supply of petroleum, and the center of international discord and tension. Dr. Giddens comes to Warren on January 17th.

The final lecture of the series will be given by the U. S. Senator from New Hampshire, Styles Bridges on March 14th. Senator Bridges is one of the world's colorful, dynamic statesmen, a personality of energy and insight, whose keen analysis of today's problems is backed by long experience in national and international affairs. He speaks as an active participant in the center of world political affairs.

Season tickets are now available from the following persons or places: Andrew Barr, president of the Club; Mrs. E. H. Lefford, Mrs. R. M. Rapp, May B. Burstow, Evelyn Carlson, Edna Glasser, Goldie Hill, Elizabeth Brasington, Jean Lopez, Gus Borg, Mrs. Paul Harrington, Lucille Wright, Mrs. Robert Whitehill, Dan Walton, YMCA, and YWCA. Orders by phone will be filled at the YMCA, call 1000.
